

Reflecting on Psalm 40:

“Here I am, Lord. I come to do your will.”

Dear sisters and brothers in Christ,

As I sit to share these words with you, my heart is filled with a sense of hope and purpose that I believe comes from above. Amid our daily challenges and the uncertainty that sometimes clouds our path, I find myself drawn to the profound assurance found in Psalm 40: “I come to do your will, Lord.” These words echo through my spirit like a steadfast melody, reminding me that our lives have meaning and direction when we surrender to something greater than ourselves.

Sometimes, we may feel overwhelmed by the burdens we carry—be it sorrow, confusion, or moments of doubt. Yet, it is in these moments that God gently whispers to us, inviting us to trust Him, to step forward with courage, and to embrace the path He has prepared. Our willingness to say, “I come to do your will, Lord,” is not a sign of weakness, but a declaration of faith! It is the courage to let go of our own plans and allow God’s love to guide our steps.

Throughout Scripture, we see many who answered God’s call with humility and obedience. They were not perfect, yet their willingness to serve made all the difference. Like them, we too are called to listen for God’s voice in the stillness of our hearts. When we offer ourselves in service—through acts of kindness, words of encouragement, or simply by being present for others—we participate in God’s work in the world.

Let us remember that God’s will is always rooted in love, compassion, and justice. When we align our hearts with His, we find true peace and fulfillment, regardless of our circumstances. Each day offers a fresh opportunity to renew our commitment: “Here I am, Lord. I come to do your will.” This simple, humble prayer has the power to reshape our lives, transform our relationships, and inspire hope in those around us.

As you journey on, may you find strength in knowing that you are never alone. God walks beside you, inviting you to trust Him each step of the way. Let this new day be a chance to listen, to serve, and to surrender to His loving will. In doing so, may you discover the deep joy and purpose that comes from living a life anchored in faith.

With blessings and encouragement,
